Robert, Wes Christian

R Robert 00:03

Mr. Christian, I am very, very glad to welcome you to this informal, nonprofit educational hearing of the judicial commission that supports the international tribunal of natural justice. I am the Chief Counsel for the nonprofit educational judicial commission of inquiry into human trafficking and child sex abuse. And in that capacity, I am supposed to be able to draw witnesses out in a very respectful manner. I have been privileged to learn about naked short selling and money laundering and not from you Wall Street treason, which are, in my view, the counterpart to some of the horrors against children and women that are being practiced all over the world. I would like now to give you an opportunity to outline a case that you have filed, and I'll ask you to tell us about the case, give us a opening statement, and then talking points and then a closing statement. And this will be a nonprofit educational overview for the public about what I regard as the single most important case with respect to Wall Street counterfeiting of shares, naked short selling, and the cheating of widows and orphans and pension funds in modern history. The floor is yours, sir.

W Wes Christian 01:21

Well, thank you, Robert, for allowing me to give you an overview of naked short selling. But let's, let's first look at the big picture, which I think every American needs to understand. It's my view and a view of many consulting experts and economists that I know that Wall Street and their co conspirators have taken in stolen in excess of $100 trillion dollars out of our economy. In the last, you know, 10 to 20 years. They've done that principally by selling financial assets, stocks, bonds, other things, they sell them electronically, but they deliver nothing. In effect, it is no different than counterfeiting, $20 bills except in this case, their counterfeiting stock and other financial assets, it would be no different than you taking your car title, where you just have one car xeroxing your car title 100 times selling it to 100 different people but there's only one car 99 of those 100 people own nothing other than a little electronic transmission on their account statement that says they own it. But in fact, they don't our system is full of I owe us no different than an IOU in a poker game. Okay, where somebody owes you money, except in this case, they owe you stock, or they owe you a bond they owe you something that you paid for. The truth is naked short selling at this systemic of a level, involving an excess, I believe of $100 trillion of fraud threatens the very integrity and stability of our stock markets. The most recent news articles on GameStop is demonstrative of this, but that is truly a speck of sand on the beach of the avalanche of financial catastrophe that's lurking out there in our financial markets. Naked short selling is used to manipulate our markets, it is used by letting Wall Street figure out a way in this case, selling the stock that doesn't exist to rig the system. Because if you look at any type of asset, whether it's tomatoes, or stock, or cars or houses, the more you increase the supply. The demand cannot keep up with the supply and the price goes down. Because ultimately, a price has a factor in it called supply and demand. If Wall Street is able to inject into the market on a given day, where a company sells a million shares, sell they sell an additional million shares on that day they sell 2 million shares, then ultimately the price is going to go down. And that way you have rigged the system so that the price goes down every single time and you profit from short selling itself. In this case, it's naked short selling, and make trillions and trillions of dollars at it. The truth is, is this this corrupt practice this illegal methodology has killed 1000s and 1000s of companies. Why? Because Wall Street has intentionally killed them. Why? Because it's easier to generate that electric transmission of supply than it is to put the hard sweat and equity into building the company. If I can make more by killing it, Wall Street says, I'm going to kill it. Okay. But in that process, we need to understand that people's jobs have been lost. People's innovations have been lost things that would have made each of our lives better, have been killed have been buried, all in the interest of making the almighty dollar. The truth is, is this is I believe, the largest commercial crime in the history of our country. And it threatens its very existence, and certainly the integrity of it.

Robert 05:42

Let me jump in because I am a student as well as a hearing for you. One of the things you haven't mentioned is that not only are they killing companies, which then lose their legal standing, it's the perfect crime. But they are also destroying pension funds for widows and orphans and policemen and firemen and nurses and teachers. And that's why I consider this a heinous crime. I'd also point out, I've been involved in several Ipoh discussions, nobody with a brain goes to Wall Street for money anymore, because they know that they will be cheated. If we take the crime out of Wall Street, Wall Street will explode with good value. Forgive me for intervening but this is very much an educational program for the American public. Please proceed?

W

Wes Christian 06:29

Yeah, there is no question and answer to your very appropriate point that this naked short selling affects the value of every one stock, including firemen and teachers, and nurses and everybody across the country. You may ask well, how can that be? Here's how that can be because those pension funds are managed by money managers, those money managers in many instances are loaning your stock, unbeknownst to you to short sellers, who only have one thing to do, and that's bet that the stock goes down. And of course, they profit when the stock goes down, because they'll sell the stock at $100 a share, drive it down to $90 a share, go into the market, buy it at $90 a share and return the borrowed share to the person that they borrowed it from when they sold it 100 and they make $10 a share net profit.

R

Robert 07:23

If I could jump in- one of the things I've been researching separately is the degree to which bribery and perhaps even blackmail is being used to get the administrators of pension funds to make the deal that betrays the people for whom they have a fiduciary responsibility. And I just asked you this question. I have the impression that the elements of government, the Department of Justice, the FBI, the securities exchange commission, and the various us attorneys are not paying serious attention to the degree to which pension fund managers are violating their fiduciary responsibility, answer me that question and then tell us how we can fix this whole thing?

W

Wes Christian 08:06

Well, the answer to your question is, is that Wall Street has figured out a way to bribe or financially influence many segments that make this happened. It may be a journalist, it may be a person that is an analyst that writes about companies. In the 20 cases we've handled in the last 20 years. In the overstock case, the analyst was taking money to write a fake report. or in another case, a mayor was taking money to say that the taser gun is unsafe. And down the list. There are many aspects to it, including people that manage money. So the reality is, if Wall Street is able to financially, bribe or influence others to communicate lies about a certain situation, such as, for example, the company is having financial problems or started investigation with the SEC, which really isn't meritorious, all of that ultimately puts pressure on the stock.

R

Robert 09:16

I want you to just do the nutshell version of how it can be fixed, and then we'll go through the talking points.

W

Wes Christian 09:23

Yeah, it can be fixed by first enforcing the laws that are on the books. You know, it seems along our way that the rule of law doesn't seem to get enforced like it used to. So we have to we have to reenact that principle. And that's justice for everybody on both sides, not just big Wall Street banks. Every share that is sold every financial asset that is so must be delivered. No exceptions. No excuses. Because Don't forget, Robert that the problem started when Wall Street decided we're going to start electronically transmitting this. Not passed the paper certificates. In the old days, the paper certificates would pass from the seller to the buyer, on and on and on Wall Street said, well, that's not efficient up, let's do it electronically. But guess what? That little methodology has allowed this fraud to occur because it's being transmitted electronically, but nothing to back it up. So every share must be delivered. If they don't deliver, then there ought to be a massive fine impose not some token fine, which is what's going on today. Secondly, you ought to be able to do that, and maybe one more time or something like that, absent that they shut you down, and you can no longer short stock. Number two, if it parade, if it permitted, if it's prevails consecutively for numerous days, then ultimately, it needs to be a crime. Presently, counterfeiting stock is a crime, but they don't really people don't look at it that way. But that's really what it is. Only the company can issue the stock.

R

Robert 10:58

Let me jump in. And just point out that one of the things I've learned in investigating all of this is that Eric Holder from Covington and Burling, the same people that destroy general Flynn's defense, Eric Holder wrote the holder memorandum that took jail off the table for wall street, this kind of cheating and the fines are now a cost of doing business. Never mind that they are insignificant fines, because the government elements appear to be as Robert Blake he told me, a Rico organization in collusion with the evildoers Please go on, on transparency.

W

Wes Christian 11:35

Yeah, so also, there needs to be full transparency. If you're an owner of stock, for example, and you own 5% of a company or 10% of a company, you have to follow a 13, D, D is in delta. If you're a short seller, you don't have to report anything, you don't have to report that you own a certain position short in a company that needs to happen. And in that regard, every broker who is shorting needs to report their shorts every single day, not every two weeks, which is presently what it calls for. Number three, trading tickets cannot be Miss marked, many of these trading tickets are being missed Mark long to deceive you. And think that it's not a short, it really is a short. So what companies think they're reported short interest is is a lie. In most every instance I've looked at, it's twice as large or much larger than what's reported. Number three, you are negative number four, there needs to be mandatory buy ins, what that means is, is that the buying broker presently has an obligation to buy the selling broker in if it's not delivered within a defined time period. That's not happening. Because everybody's in on it. If the buyer wants to buy the seller, and the seller will call back the buyer and say, Well, I'm the buyer on the other transaction I'm gonna buy you into. And they both say, well, we better not do that. brokers cannot lend shares more than once. What happens in these cases is they will call Merrill Lynch or someone and say, Hey, give me a locate on that share. And they get that locate to multiple people at the same time on the same day. Of course, don't forget Wall Street makes an enormous amount of money out of stock lending. So with all those factors, you could clean this up literally in a week. We know what's what's culminated over the last 20 years.

R

Robert 13:28

Well, you you haven't mentioned the role of the depository trust and clearing Corporation and also one of my favorites that we now have under investigation, CD -CEDE and Company, which is actually the owner of all stocks, and they're just, they're just offering fractional ownership, most of it fraudulent. You also haven't really emphasized that I urge you to do this as you go forward, the complicity of elements of the US government. Gee, Robert Blakey wrote the Rico legislation. And as God is my witness, if we can't have an honest government that enforces the rule of law, then we don't have an American Republic under the Constitution. So I would urge you to add as a nutshell, number nine, the United States government should not be a Rico organization complicit in foreign collusion, which is treason, naked short selling, and money laundering. All right, I've just exercised my judicial liberty in telling counsel what I think now I'd like you to come back and give us the talking points in as much detail as you wish.

W

Wes Christian 14:42

Sure. Well, at its base level, really what this this group of cases is about is about lying, cheating and stealing. It's that simple. What's the lie? Wall Street is telling the market telling you and I telling teachers, firemen and others that the stock I'm selling is real, when in fact it's not. And we know them because in every case we do. There's many more shares in circulation because they've been electronically created by wall street than exists. Only the corporation can issue those shares. Hundreds of millions of shares are sold each day electronically and not timely delivered. How do we know that? Dr. Robert Shapiro, former Undersecretary of commerce in the Clinton administration, a renowned expert on this topic, says 500 million in a study he did to 1 billion shares per day, not dollars shares per day are so but not delivered. We know that because sec and FINRA have issued fines in the hundreds of millions of dollars. And it is a token fine. But at least they've acknowledged that it's being done and put it on paper and said they're doing it and find them. We know this because more people are showing up to vote when compared to the total and issued and outstanding shares. We know this because in the discovery we have in other cases, we see it I can't talk about that, because they're subject to a protective order. So that's the lies. What's the cheating, the cheating is it's cheating investors, including people in these pension funds out of the value of their retirement. So it is one New York representative told me this is cost one generation, their entire retirement. So one generation of the entire United States of America, and that person's opinion, has been wiped out and diminished by this money that's been stolen. How is it stealing? Wall Street is stealing by taking investors money and giving them nothing. They're giving them 99 of those car titles that I alluded to earlier. They're taking the money, but they're not giving any cars. For hundreds and 1000s of companies, Wall Street has illegally issued shares to millions of people who really think they own those shares, because it's on their account statement. But really what that is, is called a security entitlement. Okay? The reality is this step is estimated to be in excess of $100 trillion.

R

Robert 17:15

One point that you haven't made, which I've been wondering about, looks to me like there are a lot of companies, Merrill Lynch comes to mind that list shares as if someone owns them, they have these managed accounts. And so they've moved away from individual brokers that you know, and trust, and they've moved into these managed accounts. So in addition to make it short selling where you pretend to sell shares, apparently, there's also fraudulent accounting, where you tell people that they own shares, and they don't, and then you destroy the company so that you can tell the people well, your shares, you own them, but now they're gone. Sorry, it's the perfect crime on both sides of the ledger.

W

Wes Christian 17:55

It's very true, because what you have to understand is they intentionally make it enormously complex. Here's a simple example. If in a proxy meeting for the annual meeting, shareholders show up that total 100 million shareholders who are entitled to 100 million votes, but the company is only issued 50 million shares. Who is it that doesn't get to vote? Who is it that doesn't own their shares? It's no different than a cakewalk at church or synagogue, where there's 20 people walking around in the music, but there's only 10 chairs, believe me, there's going to be a rush to find a chair and 10 people are going to be standing up with no chair. That's really the situation we have here.

R

Robert 18:38

So this is a problem. How did it get this large?

W

Wes Christian 18:42

Well, that's a great question. How it got this large is in the old days, they would take stock, and they would send runners to deliver it to the buyer seller would sell to a buyer. They take the certificate, assign it to the buyer, running over to the buyers broker deposit in their account. They eliminated that when they formed the depository trust, the key word is trust Corporation. And of course, that corporation is owned by wall street. That corporation is a self regulatory organization and SRO and essentially regulates itself. So the very perpetrators we believe, or at least partial owners of the depository trust Corporation.

R

Robert 19:26

Let me ask you this question because I wrote the memorandum for President Trump on how he should confiscate through civil and criminal forfeiture $100 trillion from Wall Street and the Supreme Court which is in question today with respect to the Constitution, but the Supreme Court and throckmorton I think it said was that any outcome based on fraud is obviated once the fraud is discovered. So it seems to me to set the stage for the rest of your remarks is that every single individual in these brokers and dtcc and sec in the Southern District in the Department of Justice in the Senate Banking Committee, every single one of these individuals complicit in fraud should be subject to the confiscation of their wealth. Given that we have all of the National Security Agency information about every email, every phone call every game chat every banking transaction, including all of the overseas shell game transactions. So my question to you counselor is, do you think that if we can demonstrate to the public that all of these people are complicit in illicit wealth we can then enact to the confiscation of all of their wealth by civil and criminal forfeiture?

W

Wes Christian 20:38

Yeah, well, first, I'm not a criminal lawyer. But I can tell you what, in general, I think we plead conspiracy claims in virtually every case, we have, typically any member of a conspiracy, makes them jointly and severally liable if you have sufficient proof, in connection with that conspiracy, which means they're responsible for whatever was stolen themselves, I can get it from one person, I can get it from all of them, and get it from half of them. It doesn't make any difference. So there is no doubt that there are multiple parties that are involved in this at every level, the brokerage firms, the journalists, the analysts, the hedge funds, and down the list, I could keep going.

R

Robert 21:22

So this is what this is more than enough. And I'll just tell you tell you that as an intelligence professional who's pioneered Open Source Intelligence, and is now pioneering domestic counter intelligence against wall street trees, and naked short selling and money laundering. I think what we have here is easily 1000 people that could be taken off the street interrogated and offered a deal. Please tell us what does this all mean for the American citizen whose life savings has been stolen?

W

Wes Christian 21:56

What it means is, is we have to stand up and say, This is enough. The government needs to be unified on this issue. It needs to be a bipartisan undertaking where they say, because the truth is this has gone on in Republican and Democratic administrations.

R

Robert 22:14

Please forgive me, I want to make one important interruption. Dr. Cynthia McKinney and I have been pioneering hashtag on rig election reform. And she is directing a movie on on election fraud and election reform at the same time that I'm directing a movie on Wall Street, treason and crime. And Sean stone, the son of Oliver Stone is directing a movie on the satanic Empire, and the degree to which Evil has been controlling everything. The point that I want to make to our viewers is that we have a two party tyranny that has disenfranchised 70% of the public. And both the Democratic Party and the Republican Party are including every member of Congress, that is complicit in all this Rico organizations, the two political parties are Rico organizations, and you are not going to get a solution from Rico organizations who are occupying Congress, and today running a sham impeachment trial against the former president united states whom I believe to be actually the real elected president united states. And forgive me for pushing this in. But I think we need to provide context here, the Republican and Democratic parties have been complicit in enabling this. And I think particularly of Senator Shelby and Dodd, there's no question that both parties have been involved in enabling it. And by enabling, and I mean, we call that enabling by omission. They have omitted to do what their duty is, is to uphold the Constitution and give equal justice for all What's our, our constitution promises? The truth is in 2008, and that the first financial catastrophe, you know, we're the ones that's very citizens, who are the ones that gotten robbed are the ones that bailed out Wall Street? Why would the people that got robbed bail out the robber? Okay, that's the true that that cycle is continuing on and on and on, because my perception is we're headed for another financial debacle, which again, is brought on by the massive theft of selling all these financial assets and stealing it from the American public. So unless, people everybody on both sides of the aisle stand up and say, this has got to stop, go back and seek recompense from those who have stolen it, then we're never going to get anywhere in this country. It's going to continue to be justice for the elite and no justice for those that aren't in that group. That's simple.

W

Wes Christian 23:30

R

Robert 24:44

To give us a wrap up, how do you fix this in detail?

W

Wes Christian 24:48

Well, you fix it by enforcing the constitution and enforcing the rule of law. If you sell something that you don't own, for God's sakes, You give your hard earned money to somebody, if you're buying something and you don't get what you bought. That's called stealing. That's called theft. Those people that did that, or anybody that participates in that process needs to go to jail. If you and I were manufacturing $20 bills in our garage, I can promise you, we would be in jail in a week. And we would be convicted within six months. Okay, that's not happening here. So people need to be put in handcuffs and go to prison for this. People need to lose the illegal and illicit wealth that they gathered and stolen from the American people because of this. And if you if you sell something, you got to deliver it, or you're going to face the consequences, the financial fines, the imprisonment, the the the demeaning aspect of it, of putting your picture in the in the paper, making you stand out in the town, square, whatever, whatever ultimately has to be done to shame you and to punish you and to doing what you're supposed to do. The truth is, these people have not faced any material consequences, no different than your children or anybody else, you're going to keep committing bad acts until the consequences are so severe, that you're going to stop that system of consequences needs to be put in place.

R

Robert 26:24

Well, let me point out that one of the things that we're talking about here and the- I don't want to say Washington, DC, which is now the world's largest open air prison camp, God bless our military. But we really have to get back to confiscation through civil and criminal forfeiture without trial, just a judgement of these waterfront mansions, these private jets, these private yachts, these private islands, many of them near Jeffrey Epstein's Island, which is the topic all of its own, the Picasso collections, the gold bars, the jewels, all of this is subject to confiscation. And my point is that I believe that there are people out there, including Mike Flint, and and Sidney Powell and others, and certainly led by Donald Trump, who are giving serious thought to unrig the system. And if these people don't make a deal, and I am huge on truth and reconciliation, make the deal give $100 trillion back to the US Treasury. And we won't give you a get out of jail free card, but you're gonna have to buy it. You don't get it from Eric Holder at no cost.

W

Wes Christian 27:34

I like that program. But I would add to it, you cannot recommit this crime, okay. You have to force people to sell what they mean deliver what they sell, you have to make the system transparent. It's not transparent. This is a lot of this is done through dark pools and the dark at night. We know what happens when people go into the dark of night, bad things occur. So make it transparent, make them deliver, make them report like everybody else reports and enforce the rule of law. It's that simple. And then it works.

R

Robert 28:07

I think you're absolutely right. And this website that I've created on naked short selling, has now expanded to treason and also money laundering. Because it's my conclusion after my own investigations that you have documented with I think over 300 cases, that there are $100 trillion that have been stolen in the last 20 years, we'll say to give it a little bit of a bigger window. It's my conclusion, that $100 trillion in illicit wealth from the trade in women and children and drugs and gold and guns and other illicit contraband has also happened. We're talking here about $200 trillion in illicit wealth, all of it confiscate double. Hence, truth and reconciliation, make the deal give back half and that can be redistributed to the public and help pay for making America great again, I asked you to wrap up, give us the history lesson and the other impacts.

W

Wes Christian 29:03

The history lesson is we cannot allow this type of activity to go on by the elite. It truly is a situation where hard working Americans have to march to one drummer and the elite have to march to another drummer, you cannot have two different rules of law, you must enforce the rule of law across the board. The only thing that keeps this country together is everybody feeling like they're treated fairly, that that liberty and justice and freedom for all applies to everyone. And justice is the key word in the context of what we're talking about. That simply is not happening. Wall Street is paying billions of dollars in fines as a cost of doing business or they're stealing trillions. Unless we restore this now, we're going to lose competence in our financial markets. Those markets ultimately I predict at some level will collapse at some level. And then there will be sufferings like we haven't seen. And again, who's responsible that those that perpetrated so the only way we can keep that from happening is to take action now to go out confiscate this illegal wealth and force the rule of law precluded from continuing to happen and restore the integrity and honesty in our markets, which incidentally, is going to cause those markets to really take off like they never have, as opposed to being manipulated day after day after day by the elite who have billions and trillions of dollars,

R

Robert 30:35

I want you to just quickly make a point up because I personally consider the securities exchange commission to be a Rico organization and a disgrace to the American Republic. You had told me earlier that they got 5000, naked short selling complaints between 2007 and 2008, which is one of the last years in which you'd looked at it, what percentage of those complaints did they investigate?

W

Wes Christian 30:59

About 2.56%. I think 123 of those were investigated. And and you know, there's something unique that happens there. Many of the companies, overstock taser gun and others that we've represented over the years, when you went in to talk to the SEC about it, ultimately, you got investigated. So the reality is that there appear to me to be people at the SEC, and at some of these government organizations that are either working with or somehow aligned with the bad guys that are doing this. Ultimately, they're there to protect investors. That's if you look at their mandate, they're there to protect investors, not the individuals who are perpetrating this and they're not put there to to help Wall Street or to help Merrill Lynch, Goldman Sachs, Credit Suisse, etc. They're here to help the firemen, the policemen, all those people in those pension funds.

R

Robert 31:54

You know, I'd like to make a point because I never in a million years, and just so people will understand the seriousness of this. These are four books that I have published, that I have helped publish on satanic pedophilia, and the abuse of the abuse of children. There's a fifth book coming out soon and the website is pt.org, paedo.org, empire.org. And wall street trees and in crime are intimately connected. And I want to make this point, organizations that started out to protect children and nurture children, such as UNICEF, Oxfam, the Boy Scouts of America and child protective services across America have ultimately ended up being run by pedophiles who are preying on children. I'm telling the SEC, like a parent, look at me here, I'm telling the SEC, we know that you are now helping Wall Street screw the American public and that is over, you are going to be seeing the inside of Guantanamo if you do not get your act together and make the deal. So please bring this to a close with other impacts of this. And I will also tell you, I agree with you that wall street will explode once we take the crime out of Wall Street. Because all of the smart inventors and entrepreneurs that I've been talking to for the last 10 or 15 years, say I will not do an IPO. That's a death sentence.

W

Wes Christian 33:14

Well, that's why you're seeing so much money go into private equity is because if Wall Street is going to be allowed to continue to rig the system by injecting these artificial shares and creating supply that exceeds demand, then they're going to manipulate your stock data and kill your company. The result of this is if we don't stop it, pension funds, all the hard working people in the United States are going to lose confidence in our markets, they're gonna say forget about it, I'm not going to put my money and allow it to be invested there. That's number one. Number two technology that we all need is not going to continue to advance by individual inventors are historically inventors are the ones who have come up with these ideas, and ultimately put that in a company built that company up and made our lives better in some way. The best example is a company I know that has an incredible, a drug that cures brain cancer, and that company is being ravaged by wall street yet it could help save lives. Why in the world would somebody want to kill a company that's going to help save people's lives? It's called money, Robert called money. So we're killing technology. We're killing jobs. We're killing our retirement. And if we don't stop it, it's going to continue because until these individuals who are perpetrating this have to face consequences, it Stop it, it simply isn't going to stop. It's that simple.

Robert 34:38

Now you have a couple more points that you want to make about equal justice. And I think you should close on those two comments.

Wes Christian 34:46

Yeah, equal justice is something that all of us stand for. If you think about why my great grandfather came here. My grandfather was here Wow, everybody wants to flock to the United States is because They believe that everybody gets equal justice under the law. I swore an oath to that when I became a lawyer. The Constitution talks about that, at least in part. The reality is we're all promised that that's not what we're getting these days, money talks and Bs walks, as my dad used to say. So the reality is, all of these agencies, many judges, many others are so heavily influenced by the elites that ultimately I submit, excuse their thinking, excuse their judgment, excuse their mission statement, we have to restore equal justice for everybody. That's not happening in America today. The best example is looking at what's happened, you know, with the prior administration versus the administration before that, and versus the present administration. everybody ought to have the same right to a fair court, to to a fair jury trial, to a fair review by governmental agencies. That's simply not what's happening in America today, we have to reinstate that.

Robert 36:08

Well, you know, it is really a form of financial terrorism. And I got to know Sidney Powell, when I did a rave review of her book license to lie. There are too many judges and prosecutors and US government agencies that are licensed to lie. And as a spy, I dealt personally, with Department of Justice situations where they told the courts that they weren't licensed to lie to the courts, in cases of national security that is unacceptable. And I believe Wall Street has been licensed to steal. And I personally hold the Senate Banking Committee, and the house banking committee, complicit in this massive, massive injustice to Americans. Now, Wes, you're a fourth or fifth generation Texan. And I believe Texas stands for a lot of good things. Do you see a bright light in the future for all of us?

Wes Christian 37:01

I see a bright light in the future. But I think we're at a pivotal point right now, Robert, I think, I think the intersection of all these things. And again, I don't know what you know about pedophilia. I do know a lot about human trafficking. We're actually doing those cases in Georgia and fixing the fall those in Texas, against hotels. But so I know the magnitude that is disgusting. As a father of five daughters, it's appalling to me. But the reality is, this is all related. When people have this kind of money, they do crazy things. They influence enormous amounts of people, and they think they're untouchable. You know, we're at a point where if the untouchable, don't get touched, the whole thing's gonna blow up. So it's that simple. The Untouchables have to get touched and face consequences. One of my missions in the cases we filed is to do that. But again, we're just one voice. We need hundreds and 1000s of more to stop this and stop Wall Street from doing what it's doing in the States. And for that matter worldwide. Robert, this isn't unique just to the States. It's happening in London. I've seen that evidence. It's happening in Canada. I've seen that evidence. It's happening in Asia. I've seen some of that evidence. So it's systemic worldwide.

Let me then say that's your last word. My last word with Bill Binney and others from NSA is there is no place for you people to hide.
